HOOLE & ELLIOTT.

THE NEGRO EXODUS,

The Tribune of April 14th, renews the appeal for help for the negro refugees in Kansas. It says they need everything. Money, food, and boxes of old clothing will be of immediate service. Whatever is given in the North, let political motives be kept out of it. They need intelligent advice, direction and help to secure homes. It would not be advisable they should go into separate colonies now. They are too ignorant as yet for self-government alone. The field hand needs the white man as the flesh needs the backbone. But scattered in a friendly farming community with the same chance as poor white laborers, the prospect is fair enough for them, and principally for the reason that the negro's one idea of superiority is the owning of land."

A Herald Leavenworth special says: "The committee is actively at work to get the refugees into the country. The probability of disease breaking out among them causes a good deal of uneasiness among the people in this vicinity. The newspapers of Missouri, near the State line, close to where the people are encamped, express much alarm and demand that Kansas assume the responsibility with the least possible delay, and the people of this State feel that the burden should be borne by the whole country, and ask that citizens of other States organize relief societies and help bear part of the expense. This is necessary, in view of the fact that all reports of the negroes now here agree that those who have arrived thus far are but the forerunners of the multitude that is speedily to follow."

And this is the result of the so-called friends of Southern negroes. They send their emissaries from the North to create discontent and by misrepresentation and promises of land and money to be given them in their new Eldorado, induce them to emigrate. Hence this horrible suffering. The only true friends the negro ever did or will have are the people of the Southern States. Men and women reared under the kindly care and attention of a slave always called mamma, whose early years were passed with them as playmates and who were looked upon as wards of the family. Republicans may preach of the common brotherhood of man but they never practice their professions, and it is not until these poor misguided men and women learn by bitter experience the hollowness of their friendship and the falsity of their promises, who their real friends are, and can apppreciate the happy homes they have left in the sunny South, to become wanderers and beggars in the frigid regions of the North, living upon cold charity.

TOM FITCH AS "RICHELIEU."

The movements of Tom Fitch always interest his admirers in the sagebrush. He made his theatrical debut as "Richelieu" on Friday evening at Baldwin's Theater, San Francisco, and the Chronicle criticises as follows: "On Friday there was a crowded assemblage to witness the debut of Hon. Tom Fitch as 'Richelieu.'' The popular orator met with a very enthusiastic reception, and from the opening lines to the fall of the curtain in the last act his delineation of this grand historical character was greeted with marked attention and well-merited applause. As may well be imagined in looking on the performance in a professional point of view, it was far from being perfect, but Mr. Fitch himself disclaimed all such ideas, and as the debut of an amateur the gentleman met with a great success. His assumption of the veiled voice and infirm gait of old age was neither perfect nor well sustained, as time and again, in the beautiful flow of the lines and in the intense dramatic scenes, his own individuality became too apparent. There was a crudeness in his gestures, as also an absence of those fine points in the business which can only be attained through long experience and intense study, but several of the scenes were rendered with great power and effect. Mr. Fitch was recalled many times, and at the conclusion of the third act, in response to the wishes of the audience, he made a short and witty speech, delivered in his usual felicitous manner, returning many thanks for the very favorable reception that had been accorded to him, and in which he disclaimed all idea of adopting the stage as a profession; not that he did not hold it in high honor, but he had other views as to his future career. The support was very good. Miss Rose Wood as 'Julie,' Lewis Morrison as 'De Mauprat,' and Willie Seymour as 'Francois' meriting special commendation. Mr. Fitch must be congratulated on his success."

SAVINGS BANKS AND THE NEW CONSTITUTION.

A man said to us yesterday: "In Friday's Enterprise you asserted that with the adoption of the new Constitution in California the earnings on all deposits in savings banks in that State will be reduced to four cent. or less. How is that?" We answered: "Because the banks will be compelled to pay a tax which will reduce their profits more than one third." "Well," said the man, "will not a reduction of interest be a good thing?" We answered: "A good thing certainly, if it can be accomplished. Suppose you had money—$100 or $10,000—to spare from your business, would you loan it out and pay taxes upon it for a low rate when you could put it in United States four per cent. bonds, that are absolutely safe, and on which no taxes can be collected? Can yon not see that by reducing the profits of savings banks depositors to about the Government rate that men will withdraw their deposits and invest in United States bonds?" "Suppose they do, what harm will ensue?" was the next question. Our answer was: "There are $62,000,000 in California loaned by the savings banks to people holding real estate. Suppose that amount should be called in, what would be the result?" The man replied: "I suppose that instead of borrowing of the banks people would be obliged to borrow of each other." "Is it not plain," we asked, "that the man loaning money will have to charge heavy interest, because all the money he loans will be taxed? And then the borrower will have to pay, besides his interest, the taxes on what he owes, for the Constitution expressly commands this. And then savings banks are places of deposits of small sums as a rule. A hundred men and women deposit $10 each and the banks loan the $1,000 so received to some man, taking a mortgage to secure the amount. With the banks gone how could the man in need of money raise it?" With the adoption of the Constitution at least two-thirds of the money in savings banks will be withdrawn and put into bonds; in other words, practically withdrawn from circulation. It will give people an abiding interest in the Federal Government, but what will become of the farmers in California whose homesteads are mortgaged? It is all well enough to tell the mob that "the banks are to be cinched," but the trouble is the banks will make those who do business with them pay all the extra expenses, so the burden will rebound against the poor and the middle classes, as it always does when vindictive legislation is instituted. ANOTHER ATTEMPT TO KILL THE CZAR.

The telegraph flashes the report that another attempt has just been made to take the life ef the Czar of Russia—four shots being fired at him as he was strolling near the Imperial Palace—and that the city is decorated to show the thankfulness of the people for his escape. In view of the fact that Nihilism has permeated all ranks and classes, when even the revolt is so near the throne that relatives of the Nihilists are among the ladies of the Imperial Court, the manifestations of thankfulness seems curious enough. There is a bitter, determined and rapidly augmenting hostility against the Russian form of government, and these isolated attacks upon royalty are the faint whispers of a storm that will soon burst upon that country and test to the utmost the power of the Czar, if it does not indeed overwhelm and destroy him and his. There is nothing in the present or past history of the Czar to warrant belief in any degree of concession on his part, and the Nihilists are as determined as he.

Important to Voters.

Voters are hereby notified that after the 24th day of this month no one will be placed on the Great Register, as the supplement must go to the printer at that date. This is fair notice and no one who fails to be properly registered will have any cause of complaint. The Constitutional election must be conducted according to the letter of the law, which will not permit the receipt of a ballot on a certificate, and hence the necessity of being registered before the 24th instant is apparent at once to all.

Accident at the Summit Mine.

Yesterday noon as the men were coming off the morning shift at the Summit mine, Joseph McConnell, seated on the back part of the skip with several other miners coming to the surface, was caught by a heavy timber projecting over the shaft and badly injured. The timber crushed him to the bottom of the skip, mashing and severly bruising him. Dr. Deal was called on and had the sufferer conveyed to Hanak's lodging house, where he now lies. His wounds are not considered fatal. Under the skillful care of the Doctor he will soon be on his feet again.

Elder's Fast Freight.

Every morning witnesses the arrival of a train of ponderous wagons in front of Silas B. Smith & Co's, on main street, which is the cause of much attraction. Yesterday morning we are informed, 25,000 pounds of merchandise arrived by this line, and it is said that as soon as the roads become better, from 30,000 to 40,000 pounds will be brought in at one load. Elder is a man noted for enterprise and this mass of horseflesh, hauling seemingly impossible burdens is one of them. Merchants of Bodie all speak with approbation of this great undertaking.

Personal.

Mr. Jacobs, business manager of the firm of Koppel & Platt, our heavy clothing merchants, goes below this morning, via Bridgeport, to select their Spring stock of clothing and furnishing goods. The great popularity of this house with our people is largely due to the untiring exertions of the manager, whose large experience makes him peculiarly fitted for this position. The principle adopted by this firm of keeping the best quality of goods in stock, selling at low margins, and having but one price for all customers, has established their business on a firm and enduring basis. Mr. Jacobs proposes to return with the finest assorted stock of fine and coarse clothing and furnishing goods ever brought to Bodie, and especially adapted to the trade.

R. S. Watkins, of Coleville, Antelope Valley, visited our sanctum yesterday in company with our old friend Bowen. These pioneers will hang together true, tried and always square. It is a pleasure to meet them. Mr. Watkins reports everything brisk at Coleville. The great wants of that community is a daily mail. The Cluggage line of stages run that route to Bodie at present, and there is no good reason why this reasonable want should not be attended to, and if they will take the trouble to circulate petitions asking the establishment of a daily mail, have it signed in Bodie and Coleville, no doubt their wishes will be complied with.

Our old friend, D. D. Bowen, one of the oldest settlers of Mono county, having a fine ranch in Antelope Valley, but now residing in Reno, called on us yesterday. Our friend is visiting Mono county on ranch business. We were pleased to see the old pioneer and shake hands with a true Caucasian workingman. He returns to-day.

We were shown to-day, by William Thomas, an old miner and indefatiguable prospector, several pieces of very rich ore of the chloride variety, being entirely new to this locallty, there never having been chloride ore found in Bodie District before. This find was made about one and a half miles from town. Thomas states there is a regular well defined lode three feet wide. He has formed a company and is going to work it. One piece assayed $12,000 to the ton. Chloride is the richest and easiest worked silver ore that is found, and it seldom carries any base metals with it. We hope it may prove as permanent as these specimens are rich. Chloride ores generally lay in bunches or pockets and as a rule, though exceedingly rich, are not profitable mines to work.

A Sudden Death.

Alfred Campbell, a young man about 19 years of age, and residing with his mother at No. 51 South D street, near the corner of Washington, died suddenly Monday morning at half past 9 o'clock of an overdose of medicine which contained morphine. —Virginia Chronicle.

Saloon keepers attention! One hundred thousand choice brands of domestic and imported cigars, will be sold at cost, for cash. Call soon and get bargains. W. T. Hall, next door to the Bodie Bank. 34tf*

MINING NOTES.

Superintendent Bawden of the Julia Consolidated and Ward has gone below.

The Sierra Nevada Company are now pumping 95,000 gallons of water daily.

The new west joint crosscut on the 850 level of the Con. Virginia was on Saturday in a distance of 19 feet.

On Saturday evening the California Mining Company shipped bullion to the value of $41,573 51. The Con. Virginia Company shipped 23,600 49; total, $65,173. The Con. Virginia Company have still a large amount of bullion in the office. The total yield of the California thus far for the month is $141,466 71. The total for the Con. Virginia for this month is $48,136 04.

About 8 o'clock on Saturday evening a miner named Fahey, working in the Bullion mine, was severly injured by the falling of a piece of rock It appears that a blast had been fired in a station on the incline below the 1750 level, and a quantity of rock had been loosened which did not fall. An effort was made to disengage it but without avail. As it looked dangerous, Fahey and his partner propped it up with timbers. They then resumed work when suddenly the mass came down, and a rock weighing several hundred pounds struck Fahey. His right arm was broken, his head badly lacerated and the thumb and two fingers of his right hand cut off as completely as if done with an ax. He was at once removed to his lodgings in Gold Hill, and is doing well.

It being reported on the streets this morning that the bottom of the incline in the Ophir mine had cut into ore, the Chronicle's mining reporter was detailed to investigate. Upon inquiry at headquarters it was ascertained that the stopes were looking much better than heretofore, and seemed to indicate the proximity of a better grade of ore; that the incline had recently penetrated a kindly formation, more quartz coming into the porphyry, and that the general indications throughout the mine were very favorable. It would probably be some days, and perhaps weeks, however, before any very decided improvement could be looked for. From another source the Chronicle is informed that a bunch of rich ore was cut in the incline yesterday, but the quartz and porphyry formation soon reappeared.—Virginia Chronicle.

Yesterday afternoon between 5 and 6 o'clock, says the Tuscarora Times-Review of Saturday, an accident occurred at the Independence new shaft which resulted in the death of Edward Goodman. He and his partner, Thomas Mansfield, were at work in the bottom of the shaft, when one of the lining planks—a board 16 feet in length—became detached from its place, and, falling nearly 300 feet, struck Goodmen on the head, killing him instantly. The men were engaged in drilling at the time, and Mansfield states that the board made no noise in descending, and that they were not apprised of any danger until it grazed his head, before striking Goodman, whose head was crushed like an egg shell and his right hand almost severed from the arm.

The Blackhawk mine received a terrible blow from the bears who appeared to combine for the purpose of breaking it down, and succeeded in bringing it from $4 down to $2 25. It rallied, however, yesterday, opening at $2 75 and closing at 2 60, under a pressure of 1830 shares sold. There is no good reason for this break in Blackhawk. The ore on the Warren lead already uncovered should send this stock to double the price it has ruled in the board and with the favorable indications and prospects of other portions of the mine, it, on its merits should be strong at $10. This opinion is formed from our last visit to the mine, and we know of no change having occurred to alter it and would be sorry to see our friends sacrifice their stock.

Bodie.

What a town—on every hand the continual sound of the saw and hammer, buildings going up like magic, and before half finished are rented at fabulous rates; our streets blocked with heavy teams and a continual stream of humanity passing to and fro through the crowded thoroughfares, rushing onward in the general hunt for fortune. Should our mines continue to open up as heretofore there is no telling when this Bodie emigration will cease, or the metropolitan proportions our town will assume. Certainly, the prospect is as cheering as the basis of our prosperity is permanent, and it is this general belief that brings the live, active men from all parts of the coast to cast their lots with us. Bodie can to-day boast of having the most energetic, active, business men, miners and mechanics to be found on the coast. With such material nothing is beyond our reach, for with them there is no such word as fail.

For Sale.

Most desirable lots for business and residence purposes, situated on the Waltz Tract. The undersigned have been by the owners of the above tract appointed their agents for the conduct of all sales of town lots. The property comprises much of the most valuable and best located lands in Bodie. All parties desirous of investing are invited to call at our office, northest corner of Main and Green streets.

Stage Line for Lake District.

Mr. Ogg yesterday started with horses and men to stock the new line to Mammoth City. He proposes to put on a line of first-class stages and make the trip in fourteen hours from Bodie to Mammoth City. The irrepressible Hank Blanchard is agent and can be found at the office, Main street, Bodie, California.

COAST ITEMS.

The waters of the streams emptying into Puget Sound have been unusually high within the past few days. This is the case particularly with White and Skagit rivers, where a good deal of loss has been sustained by loggers and farmers.

Considbrable excitement was created in Mokelumne Hill, on Saturday evening last, by a row in the Chinese quarters in which knives and swords were freely used. The principal damage was sustained by a celestial, Ah Mow by name. His left hand was severed from his arm at the wrist, by a blow from a heavy knife or sword.

John Bennet, a miner at Dutch Flat had a narrow escape from death on Saturday last in the Franklyn claim. He was knocked into the flume—there being about 1,000 inches of water running at the time, and was carried out of the tunnel and over the dump, thirty-eight feet high, and was picked up some 300 feet below the dump for dead, but outside of a little internal shaking up, he was found to be almost entirely unhurt.

To the Voters of Bodie.

It is necessary for every voter who desires to vote on the new Constitution to register on the Great Register, that their names may be published in the supplemental register to entitle them to vote—as no person will be allowed to vote whose name does not appear on both registers. It is, therefore, necessary for names to appear on the Great Register at least ten days prior to the election that the list may be made out and printed in time for distribution to the several election precincts in the State. Voters will take notice and govern themselves accordingly.
